

United Methodists are connectional people. Your conference Office of Connectional Ministries seeks to help the West Virginia conference live into this vision of being connected to one another.

Conference staff members will come to your local church to help you develop your ministries in the areas of mission and ministry including: communications; congregational development; ethnic ministries; evangelism; global ministries (including our seven mission projects and church and community missionaries); leadership formation and ministry support; and youth and outdoor ministries (including our conference camp and education center at Spring Heights). We can help you in your mission and ministry.

Please call your conference office for help from one of your conference staff members or feel free to email me at kkrimmel@wvumc.org.

Your faithful giving of your fair share of the conference apportionment enables all of these ministries, and much more to become reality. Thank you for your faithfulness in giving.

May God wonderfully bless you and your congregation in ministry - together!
