I offer Clergy and Laity Coaching for ministry goals and personal/spiritual growth. My role is to help you get “unstuck,” find a way forward, and take action.

Bio:

Rev. Benjamin Wells is the campus minister and director of Marshall Wesley, the United Methodist Campus Ministry at Marshall University. Benjamin is a “preachers kid” who began his pastoral career in the North Carolina Conference UMC, serving 12 years in local church and campus ministry there before coming to West Virginia. He is a graduate of Duke Divinity School (M.Div) and Methodist University (BA).

Benjamin is an avid “rail fan” and train photographer, loves Bluegrass music, and never misses a Duke Basketball game. His wife, Toby, and he married in 2000 and have a young daughter, McLaurin. In their free time, they enjoy being outdoors, especially hiking, paddling, and camping; and enjoying all that West Virginia offers.

Benjamin offers coaching for Clergy and Laity for ministry goals and personal and spiritual growth. He has extensive experience coaching young adults and students, and has specialty training in personal financial coaching.
